COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The town books are closed for another year. Some accounts were overdrawn and some show an unexpended balance. In a week or two I will try to have a financial statement of all the accounts printed in the paper.

The unpaid tax list for 1962 will be larger this year than last year. Due to the large number of payments the last few days of the month, I don't have the completed figures but will try to have the comparative figures for the two years in next week's paper.

The auditor will be here Monday to make the annual audit of the town books. Although everything is kept up to date weekly and monthly during the year, there is a great deal of work to do that can not be done until the end of the year.

According to some people, the storm and high winds were as bad as any experienced in this area for several years. The wind seemed to pile drifts across the roads right after they were plowed. It was fortunate that there were no fires over the week end. The crew is cleaning up as fast as they can. It will still be a while before all of the roads are completely open.

Beverly, Mass., Evening Times: "Sweden appears determined to have its cake and eat it, too.... Welfare spending is up 9 per cent from last year, but private business and industry are escaping the increased burden. The consumer is largely financing the new social services through a lusty sales tax increase. It has come to realize that welfare schemes like the ones dear to Swedish hearts cannot exist without a base of prosperous private industry."

Construction of a $380,000 grade school building in Rumford Center is considered for 1963. A location on the Andover road opposite the Walter Holman residence is being considered. This building would replace the Kimball school at Rumford Point.

The recount of Oxford County's election ballots last week gave David R. Hastings (R) of Fryeburg lead over John L. Batherson of Rumford (D) for County Attorney. The recount confirmed the election of Juanita Allen (D) of Woodstock over Olive D. Chandler of Norway (R) for Oxford County register of deeds.

1962 in Bethel

The past year has not been one of unusual activity or growth. Most noticeable change in Bethel's appearance was completion of the bridge construction at the edge of the village which eliminated the old bridge over the Grand Trunk tracks at Church and Railroad Streets. A greater project was construction at Gould Academy of the new Bingham Hall, preparations for which started in April.

The bridge work was started in the fall of 1961 when the contract was awarded to H. E. Sargent, Inc., at $345,044.48. William Moore was subcontractor on the bridge. The construction which spans the highway and railroad, also included a bridge over Mill Brook. Total cost of the project is reported at $457,000.

The Bingham Hall project, to be completed this year, involves reconstruction of the gymnasium which was built in 1921. The new building will include a 550 seat auditorium with complete stage and projection facilities, besides faculty and alumni rooms.

Forty-seven building permits were issued in town in 1962, many being for alterations or additions. The total estimated amount is $792,000 of which $650,000 is the Academy's expansion.

VOTE NOT PERMITTED ON DISSOLUTION OF SAD 17

Petitions bearing nearly 600 names were presented to the town managers of Norway and Paris asking for special town meetings to dissolve School Administration District 17.

A ruling by the Attorney General's office last week stated that no vote for dissolution of the district shall be permitted. It was announced that the Paris selectmen rescinded their vote to hold a town meeting on Jan. 5. The Norway selectmen had not set a meeting date.

The ruling from Augusta noted that the towns had voted to authorize a bond issue of $1,050,000 for secondary school construction. The district directors had voted to issue a note for $60,000 in anticipation of the sale of bonds, and the note had been issued and delivered to the Norway National Bank.

The law was quoted: "No such vote on a petition of dissolution shall be permitted which such School Administrative District shall have outstanding indebtedness. Outstanding indebtedness is defined as bonds or notes for capital outlay purposes issued by the School Directors pursuant to approval thereof in a district meeting of such School Administrative District."

The opinion stated that since a note had been issued for capital outlay purposes, the purchase of a school site, there is outstanding indebtedness in the district and the vote shall not be permitted.

Last Friday Justice Harold C. Murden issued a temporary injunction restraining the SAD 17 directors from incurring indebtedness against the district. A hearing was ordered to be held Jan. 10 at South Paris that the directors may appear and show cause why said injunction should not be granted. He also ordered that until the meeting the defendants will be restrained from incurring or attempting to incur any outstanding indebtedness against the school administration.

for the fire department. Appropriations totaled $37,823 over 1961.

Town Manager Harold L. Bean resigned his position to become manager of the town of Wilton. He came to Bethel in April 1957. Michael Houlihan of Livermore Falls was elected to succeed him.

It was estimated that $10,000 was spent in the Bethel area by visiting skiers during the TEBASA Alpine Championships at Sunday River Skiway.

Frank Rossi & Sons, Inc., of Gardiner, was awarded the contract to build two miles of road on Route 26 in West Paris at $305,850.

Miss Sharon York of Bethel won the title of Miss Oxford County of 1962 in the pageant at William Bingham Gymnasium.

Deaths: Samuel T. Smith, Lawrence A. Peakes, Walter G. Emery, Willis G. Olson, Frank E. Conroy, Charles D. Conner, Albert E. Fuller, Mrs. Jeannette G. Clough.

Snow, Cold and Wind Feature Year End Storm

A snowfall of six inches and more Saturday was followed by two days of high winds and temperatures far below zero. Roads were blocked at times, electric and telephone lines blown down and broken by fallen trees, and many buildings damaged. Many fields were cleared of snow by the continued winds.

The new poultry house of Stanley Roberts at North Bethel, which was nearly completed, was moved three-quarters of an inch. The damage to the 36x132 foot structure has not been estimated.

Storm losses in western Maine were small compared with the Bangor area where the snowfall was heavier and added to previous storms.

INDUSTRIAL MANAGEMENT CLUB TO HEAR CLARK

HEALTH AND SAFETY
TIPS FROM AMA

(Frostbite)

Cold weather is back again and with it comes the health hazards that accompany sub-freezing temperatures. An ever present winter danger is frostbite.

Frostbite is, naturally, more of a problem in the northern states, but even in most of the south there are occasional periods of weather cold enough to nip unprotected noses and fingers.

Frostbite can be very painful for a long period, can result in amputations and can leave the victim hypersensitive to cold for the rest of his life. In some ways the damage of frostbite is similar to a burn.

Injuries to both deep and shallow tissue are comparable. First degree frostbite, like sunburn, is an injury to surface skin. It is likely to attack ears, toes, fingers, cheeks or nose.

Second degree frostbite produces blisters as in second degree burns. In third degree frostbite the damage is deep and much of the frozen part may be lost.

Prevention is the best protection against frostbite. This means being properly dressed in warm clothing, waterproof shoes and heavy, dry socks, and with good covering for head and ears.

Keep clothing dry from both outside moisture and perspiration and avoid tight clothing or garters that may restrict circulation.

Motorists traveling across country in subfreezing weather are advised to have heavy clothing and shoes in the car, in the event that there should be a breakdown and it becomes necessary to hike for help.

If your auto is stalled in snow or ice some distance from help, it may be safer to stay in the car than to walk a long distance in extreme cold with clothing that is too light.

The first signs of frostbite are "pins and needles" prickly feeling and then numbness. The affected part will turn white or gray and later red.

First aid possibilities are limited. Thawing of the tissue as soon as possible is the major consideration, and this can best be accomplished by getting the patient indoors into a warm room.

Treat the frozen part with gentleness and do not rub or massage it. The old technique of rubbing snow or ice water on the frozen part does more harm than good by delaying thawing.

Medical treatment is needed

MAINE PETROLEUM ASSN.
MAKES SAFETY
SUGGESTIONS

Motorists can make the New Year holidays safer and more enjoyable by following a few simple rules, according to Russell D. Bonney, chairman of the Maine Petroleum Association.

"Millions of Americans will be making increased use of their automobiles during the holiday season for shopping, sightseeing, and visiting friends and relatives," he commented. "Each of us can get more pleasure out of this driving if we know our cars are in good condition, our seat belts are fastened, and we are alert to avoid possible hazards."

Bonney suggested that for winter driving, every automobile should be taken to a garage or service station to check on the condition of tires, brakes, lights and turn signals, windshield wipers and defrosters.

"It is important," he said, "to allow plenty of time for holiday travel. On long trips, drivers should make frequent stops and arrive relaxed. Speed must be regulated not only to stay within the law, but in accordance with road, weather and traffic conditions."

"The driver who gives himself and others an extra margin of safety and makes courtesy his code of the road will be doing a lot to make this a happier season for us all," he added. "Those same habits carried into 1963 would help make it a bright new year."

promptly in frostbite. Control of the often severe pain is required and antibiotics and antitetanus injections may be needed if the skin is broken. After the frozen skin will eventually slough off.

Special additive in today's Shell Heating Oil helps give more warmth per gallon, top heating performance

THE LUCE OIL CO.
Tel. 824-2522
Bethel, Maine

There's a new additive in today's Shell Heating Oil. Called FOA-5X, this Shell product works round the clock to protect your fuel system — from storage tank to burner head.

FOA-5X helps reduce build-up of heat-robbing deposits that can collect in critical areas of your burner. It lets Shell Heating Oil burn in a radiant, even flame. It helps reduce service calls and expense. The result: more warmth per gallon of fuel — top heating performance at minimum cost.

Before you buy your next gallon of heating oil, call us. We will give you complete details about Shell Heating Oil with FOA-5X and about our services.

BETHEL JAYCEES

Last week our President, Richard Blake, had an article in this paper trying to explain to the people of Bethel the purpose of Jaycees.

He did not mean to criticize anyone in any way. I believe there are a few in Bethel who took the letter wrong. We have not dissolved, we have voted to drop all the external projects except for the Miss Oxford County Pageant of 1963, until the future of the Bethel Jaycees looks a little brighter. The Miss Oxford County Pageant will be held April 6 at the Norway Opera House. It is to be put on by the Bethel Jaycees as usual. I hope the Bethel Jaycees will continue to help our community as it has the past two years. If any questions can be answered, or if YOU think we are doing some of our projects wrong, please write us and give us your viewpoints. It will benefit us all.

CAN YOU STOP IN TIME?

Here are National Safety Council Test Facts

These drivers see stop sign and cars crossing intersection. They apply brakes at same instant on glare ice at 30 miles per hour. What happens?

THIS DRIVER HAS REINFORCED TIRE CHAINS
STOPS IN 173 FEET
WITH ROOM TO SPARE

THIS DRIVER HAS SNOW TIRES
STOPS IN 392 FEET
TOO LATE TO AVOID COLLISION

THIS DRIVER HAS REGULAR TIRES
STOPS IN 439 FEET
TOO LATE TO AVOID COLLISION

MORE FACTS FOR SAFER WINTER DRIVING

ABOVE CHART, provided by the Safe Winter Driving League, illustrates test results by National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards. For each "braking distance" above you should add 33 feet, which is distance traveled during average "reaction time," needed to think and get your foot on brake after seeing a reason to stop. Skidding and reduced visibility are major added hazards of winter.

• Every winter the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards studies the effects of snow and ice, and how to drive safely under the worst conditions. Figures above and below are based on results of their tests.

• Packed snow also makes stopping difficult. Regular tires at 30 miles an hour will stop you in 135 feet, snow tires in 117, and reinforced tire chains in 86.

• Reduced visibility is also a major winter driving hazard. Do your windshield wipers give clear, streak-free visibility? If rubber is dead, get live rubber refills. Also check wiper arm tension. It should exert one ounce of pressure for each inch of blade length. If arms are weak, blades smear around rain or road muck, and soon ride over snow or sleet—even with new blades. Make sure defroster works.

• Rising temperature makes ice more slippery. At 30 miles an hour on ice at 0° a car with regular tires requires 256 feet to stop. At 30° this distance increases to 530 feet.

• Also significant is the great effect of speed on braking distances. At only ten miles slower, all of these figures are reduced more than half. At ten miles faster, look out! To cite one example, the average braking distance for regular tires on glare ice is 780 feet at 40 m.p.h.

CAN YOU SEE AND STOP IN TIME?

COUNTRY FLAVOR

There are days and nights when January is cold, still and white. A pale sun travels a pale blue sky. If the temperature is around the zero mark and no wind ruffles the countryside, Earth lies cold, still and white.

Dawn light comes reluctantly and the gray in the sky is cold and bleached as the sun lifts above the southeastern rim and starts its low arc. Cold presses against the land and one can feel it seeping into the old house. Smoke spirals upward from farmhouse chimneys and the black plumes in the air are exclamation points above the white page of earth.

20 SECONDS with the NAZARENE

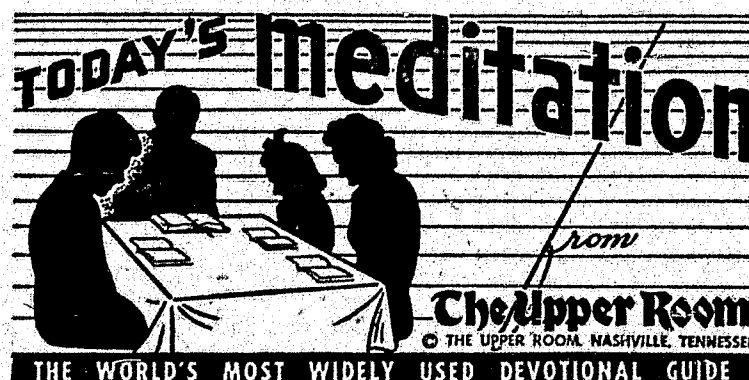

"Jesus himself drew near, and went with them." (Luke 24:15)

"At the gateway of the year now let us kneel to pray—asking God to bless us ere we go upon our way... we dare not take one step along the road that lies ahead—without a prayer for guidance on the path that we must tread."

Read Romans 1:1-16

On the human level he was born of David's stock, but on the level of the spirit—he was declared Son of God by a mighty act in that he rose from the dead. (Romans 1:3-4, Neb.)

In the Highlands of Scotland there nestles a little cottage. Far above it runs a high tension wire carrying electrical power from a northern lake to cities in the south. But in the little cottage the folk still use coal oil. There is no transformer to take that high voltage overhead and bring it down to the voltage that could be used in the cottage.

In the high and holy God and in fallen and sinful man we see divine power in contrast with human weakness. The gospel proclaims that there is a transformer for bringing the power of God into the lives of men. Christ is the transformer.

The cross of Christ is, as it were, the shaft let down from heaven to bring the power of God to man's level. That cross is grounded in the earth where man lives. Christ's power to save is as potent today as in the days of Paul.

PRAYER: We thank Thee, O God, for the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ. Let the power of that love flow into our beings this day that life for us may be transformed by the friendship of Jesus. In His name we ask. Amen.

Thought For The Day

All who truly encounter the redeeming love of Christ will be transformed.

BE PREPARED FOR HIGHWAY EMERGENCIES

"I skidded" is a prominent excuse on accidents during the winter months, say the State Police. "Rather than being a legitimate, valid excuse, it is usually a confession that the driver was caught unprepared for the emergency in which he found himself.

"After a car's vital equipment has been placed in good order, the driver must adjust his driving habits. For example, he must always remember that road surfaces change with snow and ice which he can see and even with frost and moisture which he sometimes cannot see very well, especially if he is driving fast. Frost or thin ice on shaded streets and highways gives many a driver his first skid scare of the dangerous driving season. If no accident results, the scare may prove to be a blessing in disguise, for it usually shocks a driver into more careful traffic conduct. Unfortunately, the police added, "it is impossible, however, to guarantee a safe skid."

The enforcement organization emphasized also that pedestrians should be more careful, bearing in mind that drivers have more difficulty operating their cars in bad weather. Walkers are especially hard to see on a stormy night when visibility is very poor. Walkers, therefore, are urged to be more self-reliant, to depend less upon the driver and more upon themselves. Obviously, the pedestrian rules of safe walking become more significant at this time of year with the added hazards of the winter season. "Please remember," concluded the police, "it is more important than ever to cross only at pedestrian crossings and to stay alert for driver mistakes. On rural roads, persons should walk on the left shoulder of the road facing on coming traffic. It is very important, also, to wear something white and to carry a light."

CHISHOLM SKI CLUB TO SPONSOR SKIING MOVIE

Rumford's Chisholm Ski Club Corporation will sponsor the showing of a color ski movie "Ski Happy" at the Stephens High School Auditorium Tuesday Thursday, January 10 at 7 p. m.

The 100-minute film covers a wide array of activities from recreational skiing to racing by some of the world's top professionals. It shows skiers performing on everything from deep powder snow to straw.

Photographer Les Zyromski focused his camera on Junior competition and Women's Alpine races in upstate New York, jumping at Lake Placid, FIS eliminations (in which Auburn's John Bower competed), spring skiing in lofty Tuckerman's Ravine and the fun and gaiety of the big Quebec Winter Carnival.

SO THEY SAY...

"The fact of the matter is that we have automated extensively throughout our plants in these last ten or fifteen years, and we are employing more people today than we ever did before. Somehow then, automation didn't cost jobs at all." — The Log, publication of Sprague Electric Co., N. Adams, Mass.

"If a company puts a discussion program on television, it feels it has to give both sides or else it will be accused of propagandizing the public. Many writers, inherently conservative, feel that if they say something nice about the competitive free enterprise system, they have to balance this with some acknowledgement of the progress the USSR claims to be making under socialism. Whenever the profit motive is discussed, it is in almost apologetic terms. We have got to make people understand that profit is really the motivating force in our economic system." — Edward Maher, Vice President, National Association of Manufacturers.

Gay Butler of Bethel was re-elected president of the Maine Hotel Association.

The auto repair shop of Ernest Lunen at Norway, formerly an airport hanger, burned with $30,000 loss.

V. A. NEWS LETTER

One of five major misunderstandings—or a combination of them—seems to keep eligible children of deceased servicemen from applying for the educational privileges granted them by Congress, according to Dr. Joseph S. Weltman, Director of VA's Togus Center.

1. The fact that one parent still lives makes some children believe they do not qualify as "orphans." For this benefit, an "orphan" is a child whose veteran-parent is dead as the result of a wound, accident or illness, attributable to service in the Armed Forces.

2. The fact that the dead parent had no wartime service makes others believe they are ineligible. If the veteran-parent's death resulted from the performance of duty or from extra-hazardous service during peacetime, the child is eligible.

3. The fact that they are married makes some believe they are no longer "children." Marriage does not affect eligibility. Any son or daughter of a serviceman, whose death is attributable to his service, is eligible for the educational benefits provided he or she is between 18 or 23 years of age. (There are even exceptions to these age limits and full details may be obtained at any VA office.)

4. The fact that their living parent, usually their mother, has remarried and their stepfather has legally adopted them, makes some children believe they are ineligible. The marriage of the living parent and the subsequent adoption does not affect the eligibility of the children.

5. The fact that many children do not wish, nor are prepared, for education at the college level makes some believe they cannot take advantage of these benefits. Although training for a high school diploma is not permitted, eligible children may take vocational courses and other non-college training that will help them earn a living.

VA officials will be glad to explain the Orphans Educational Program in detail to children or parents at any time.

"If you systematically save a part of your salary each week for 16 years, at the end of that time you'll be an exception." — The Mirror, publication of Worcester County National Bank.

INDUSTRIAL GROWTH GREATER IN RIGHT-TO-WORK STATES

Maine Citizens for Right to Work released statistics this week showing that states which have Right to Work Laws, protecting the right of workers to join or not join a labor union, are industrializing more swiftly than are states which do not have the laws.

Industrial, business and service jobs are being created four times as fast in Right to Work states as in non-Right to Work states. There are 19 states with Right to Work laws. The Maine organization is circulating petitions to initiate a Right to Work law in the forthcoming legislature. Approximately 30,000 signatures are needed.

The statistics on the creation of new jobs in the 50 states were compiled by the National Right to Work Committee in Washington, D. C. They were taken from the official publication of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U. S. Department of Labor.

The statistics show that the 19 Right to Work states had a 16.4% increase in the creation of new non-agricultural jobs as compared to 3.8% in the 31 non-Right to Work states.

Walter F. Tweedie, Executive Director of the Maine Citizens for Right to Work, said "Maine is one of the lowest in industrial progress. To keep our great state moving ahead we must stimulate the creations of new industries, large and small, and provide jobs that make income and raise our prosperity. This is just one of the many factors causing thousands of Maine citizens to sign our petitions for a Right to Work law in Maine."

IMPORTANT NOTICE

A recent Federal law requires Savings Banks (and all other paying institutions) to request identifying numbers from their depositors and to report these numbers to the Internal Revenue Service with respect to dividends of $10 or more paid during 1963 and thereafter. For this purpose the Law requires the depositors to furnish their Social Security numbers.

We respectfully urge each depositor to give this number to any of our tellers the next time you visit us or send in your book; or complete the following form and mail it in. Thank you for your co-operation.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

There has been considerable confusion and misunderstanding in this country over differences in high policy—of which the Suez problem provided perhaps the outstanding example—between our government and that of our principal Free World ally, Britain. This has led to grave doubts as to whether the Western alliance is really strong, or is based on a fragile foundation which might give way under stress, thus presenting the Communists with the greatest of opportunities.

The doubts, also, have been fed by accounts of the much-publicized "Better Red than dead" movement in England and, most recently, by the pro-Castro demonstrations before the American Embassy in Grosvenor Square. Such events as these could easily lead numbers of Americans, whose knowledge of the British attitude is understandably limited, to conclude that British opinion runs strongly against that of the United States.

The writer of this piece was in London during the Cuban crisis, and it can be fairly stated that such doubts are without a basis.

As an example, something like a thousand people participated in a recent "Ban the bomb" gathering in Trafalgar Square. Something like 200 demonstrators before the U. S. Embassy. Numbers like these, in a city of 7 million people, and microscopic. In any center of large population a few hundred or a few thousand zealots can be enlisted in almost any campaign, no matter how wrongheaded, blind, or erratic.

The attitude in London during the height of the crisis—as expressed by the principal newspaper and responsible members of the government—was, naturally, one of worry and caution. But there was no panic. There was a wonder if the President may have moved too far too fast in his ultimatum. But—and this is the point of over-riding importance—there never was the slightest doubt that, come what might, Britain would support U. S. policy and U. S. action.

In late November, a very clear and unequivocal statement of British position was made by Lord Home, the Foreign Secretary. It has been carried here in the New York Times Magazine. He dismisses the "Better Red than dead" movement as being "both spineless and unnecessary for if we keep our heads and our nerve we need be neither dead nor Red." He emphasizes that America bears the chief responsibility for the defense of the free world, "because America is the only country with the strength in resources of wealth and man-power to match Russia." Then he states flatly that the purpose of the Soviets in establishing the missile bases in Cuba was "to alter the balance of nuclear power in their favor by outflanking the de-

SUPERSONIC PLANE TO CROSS ATLANTIC IN THREE HOURS

Two major industries—aviation and petroleum—are pooling their resources to develop the supersonic plane which, within a decade, will enable you to fly from New York to London in less than three hours.

The supersonic transport, known as the SST, will be able to cruise at speeds in excess of 2000 miles per hour—15 miles above the earth's surface.

Although several manufacturers are competing to build the transport, a consensus of information indicates the SST will carry from 90 to 150 passengers and use between four and six fan-jet engines, each with a thrust of about 30,000 pounds, or twice that of current jet engines.

No other aviation project has ever placed so much dependence upon the petroleum industry for its continued success.

In determining operating costs per seat miles, reports the current issue of Petroleum Today, it has been found that fuel will represent 48 per cent of the total cost. This compares to 23 per cent for today's jets, and 23 per cent for piston-engine aircraft.

The technical demands on the fuel also pose a great challenge to the oil industry's aviation arm. Thus, for two years, members of the Aviation Technical Service Committee of the American Petroleum Institute have been meeting with airframe and engine manufacturers.

The basic fuel will be kerosene. But much more refined and modified than the kerosene used in grandmother's lamps; or even than the fuel used in today's jets. At such altitudes and speeds, it must meet unusual temperature and pressure conditions, but the resulting performance will herald a new age of air travel.

fenses of the continental United States."

After this, Lord Home comes to his primary point. He says: "...What we have to do is to recognize that the basic Communist purpose of imposing their system on the rest of the world are consistent and relentless and our freedom depends primarily on American power and American strength. If America is threatened, we are threatened....In the Cuban situation, therefore, the interest of Britain and the duty of an ally was to support President Kennedy both in the United Nations and outside it; and that is what we did."

British leadership, Lord Home says at the end, "will go to meet the Russians in conciliation as soon as they give their word and as soon as their word is proved in action." No one knows when that day will come. Meanwhile, there should be no question on the reliability of Britain as an ally. Lord Home's words, it is safe to say, reflect the attitude of a majority of thinking British and Commonwealth people.

BROWNIES

The second grade Brownies (Sunflowers) voted not to have a Christmas party but to bring toys for less fortunate children and to go Christmas caroling. When returning to the Legion Rooms, after caroling, the troop committee served hot cocoa and cookies. We would like to thank the troop committee for the treat. It certainly was appreciated. Our next meeting will be January 10 with Janine Merrill and Karen Page as hostesses.

Please bring empty 2-quart clox plastic containers to your leader's home or to Brownie meeting as soon you find one available, also a cigar box. Happy New Year everybody!—Reporter, Cindy Kailey.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank my friends for sending cards and gifts while I was in the Mary Hitchcock Hospital and also my classmates and teacher, Mrs. Ward, for the sunshine box.
